

STATUS OF NOMINATIONS

In Progress – to be submitted in Spring, 2012:

- Watershed-wide cover nomination
- Webster boat house and Carnes Island: unique boat house in Carnes Cove erected for Frank, Edwin and Laurence Webster ca. 1913. Carnes Island cottage was erected for Frank and Mary Webster in 1894. Both structures remain in Webster family.

- Burleigh Brae: a substantial summer house designed by Chapman & Fraser of Boston and built in 1911. Part of the larger Burleigh Farm complex, it joins already-listed National Register properties: The Homestead, built in 1899 for family patriarch Frank G. Webster, and the Laurence J. Webster House, erected in 1903-04. Burleigh Brae was built for Frank's other son, Edwin S. Webster, and remains in family ownership. The interior retains original fixtures and finishes.
- Beede Farm: ca. 1830s farmhouse and barn built by John Beede, nephew of Daniel Beede who prepared the original plan of Sandwich, carving the land into rangeways and lots. John Beede and three subsequent generations of his family farmed here continuously until 1938 when the 300-acre farm became a summer residence for a couple from Ohio. Nomination includes family cemetery and the 300 acres of undeveloped land that have defined the farm since the late 19th century.

- Pratt family complex: three primary cottages and 20 associated outbuildings developed by four generations of the Pratt family over a period of more than eighty-five years beginning in 1902. The property includes more than 80 acres in Moultonborough and is owned today by two Pratt descendants.
- True Farm: late 18th c. farmhouse and barn in Holderness which was expanded into a gentlemen's farm by George Saltonstall West in the 1920s. The property, which includes a wide range of agricultural buildings, is currently owned by the third generation of the West family. The nomination also includes a lakeside cottage erected ca. 1910 and more than 100 acres of surrounding farmland and woods.
